Become even more indispensable by gaining expertise in mobile research.

MRRI and the University of Georgia are offering a new online short course (10 hours):

The Principles of Mobile Market Research — Practices and Applications

- Provides the foundation that researchers of all levels need to know in order to conduct successful mobile market research
- Presents the technologies and wherewithal needed in the application of mobile market research
- Gain knowledge of how mobile is expanding
- Acquire practical ideas on applying this new form of research

The Online Course Modules

- Module 1 — Introduction & Overview to Mobile Market Research
- Module 2 — The Technologies that Underpin Mobile Market Research
- Module 3 — The Role of Mobile Market Research in Quantitative Research
- Module 4 — Designing Mobile Surveys
- Module 5 — The Role of Mobile Market Research in Qualitative Research
- Module 6 — Access Panels, Client Lists, and Communities
- Module 7 — Global Mobile Market Research
- Module 8 — Mobile Market Research and Mobile Marketing
- Module 9 — Mobile Market Research and Mobile Marketing
- Module 10 — Privacy and Ethical Considerations for Mobile Market Research

mobmarketresearch.org
For more information or to register for the course, go to mobmarketresearch.org, e-mail Pam.Bracken@georgiacenter.uga.edu, or call +1-706-542-3537.