Course Details

Recertification Online Course for Level II: Introduction to Design is the first self-paced, self-study online course developed by the Georgia Soil and Water Conservation Commission. This course was specifically created for certified individuals seeking recertification in Georgia Soil and Water Conservation Commission's Level II: Introduction to Design. This course meets the criteria for a Level II continuing education course for the Georgia Soil and Water Conservation Commission and is approved for 4 hours of instruction.

The Course at a Glance

- Enroll at any time; study at your own pace, and complete within 30 days or less.
- Complete each End-of-Lesson Quiz in sequence. You must score 70% or better to be able to access the next lesson's quiz.
- The University of Georgia will confirm your online quiz scores and will issue a graduate email to your preferred email address. Representatives from GSWCC will be simultaneously notified and will update their database. GSWCC will send you a new recertification card approximately 1 week prior to the expiration of your initial card.

Note: This course is designed for people who already hold certification but must renew their licensure.

Course Format

The self-paced, self-study course includes four (4) lessons. Each lesson begins with an introduction, an explanation of the purpose of the lesson and the learning objectives that you should be able to satisfy after reaching the end of the lesson. Next, you are to read through the learning material. After the content presentation, you are required to complete a quiz. Some lessons also contain additional information or appendices.

Assessments

A brief, automatically-graded quiz is included at the end of each lesson. A score of 70 percent or better is required before advancing to the next lesson. Quizzes consist of multiple-choice and true/false questions. Upon your successful completion of Lesson 4's quiz, the University of Georgia will audit your work and will report your efforts directly to GSWCC.
